Emily Strong recently graduated from Ball State University. She is moving to Denver, Colorado for her new job. She needs help finding a roommate.

While at the local park Emily meets Jeff, a 6'7" 380lb freak of nature. She says she is looking for roommates and Jeff tells her to download the new roommate finder app "Room Buddy".

Emily downloads the app and sets up her profile and adds in her favorite things, activities, and food. She puts in her roommate preferences and her location.

Emily starts swiping away at potential roommate matches. Swiping left means you don't want to room with them, swiping right means you do.

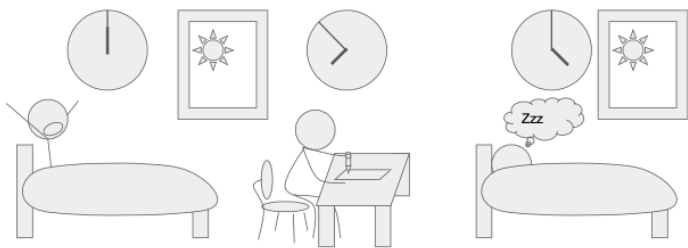

After a few minutes of swiping Emily matches with Ava. The two look at each others social media through the app itself.

The two roommates find an apartment that works for them. Both of their problems have been solved!

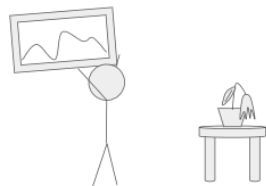

While out for dinner the pair stumbles upon Jeff again, Emily introduces him to Ava and explains they found each other through Room Buddy. Jeff says that he created the app and is happy for the both of them.
